

Cat Questionnaire RiskChecker

Is your cat at risk from fleas, ticks and worms?

Some of these we can see.
Some we can't.
Some are dangerous for your pet and your family.

Complete this risk checker to find out...

Tick the appropriate boxes and share the answers with your vet or vet nurse

Is your cat over 6 months?

Yes No

Kittens are at high risk of roundworms and weaned kittens need monthly deworming.

Does your cat ever go outside?

Yes No

For many cats the great outdoors is their kingdom. Unfortunately this increases their exposure to fleas, ticks and worms.

Does your cat come into contact with children, elderly or people with a weakened immune system?

Yes No

Some cat parasites can infect people too. Roundworms have the potential to cause serious health issues, especially in children or vulnerable adults.

Does your cat ever hunt?

Yes No Don't know

Cats that hunt are at higher risk of roundworm and tapeworm infections.

Is your cat ever fed a raw meat diet?

Yes No

Unprocessed raw meat can increase the risk of tapeworm infection.

Do you find it easy to give your cat tablets?

Yes No

Is your cat at risk of fleas?

Sadly fleas can thrive indoors or outdoors and at any time of the year. Therefore experts recommend that all cats should be treated for fleas all year round.
